

ENTaP Privacy Philosophy v1

Purpose

This document captures the design philosophy behind the ENTaP Privacy Policy. It is intended to guide drafting and legal review rather than serve as the final legal document.

Privacy Philosophy

Privacy matters because our players are people first. ENTaP will collect only the information reasonably necessary to operate, improve, and secure the platform, and will treat that information with the same respect we would expect for our own.

Data We Intend to Collect

Public: Call Sign, ENTaP ID, Hive affiliation, match history, championships, leaderboards, Trophy Case, and other competitive accomplishments.

Private: Authentication information, device identifiers, IP address, crash reports, telemetry, purchase history, and—only when legally required for purchases or prize payouts—legal name, address, payment information, and tax information.

Birthday support, if implemented, should store only month and day where practical rather than the birth year.

Data We Intentionally Avoid

ENTaP does not intend to collect contacts, photos, microphone, camera, GPS, SMS, browser history, or other unrelated personal information unless a future feature clearly requires it.

Telemetry

Telemetry exists to improve ENTaP, not to build advertising profiles. Match data, performance metrics, crashes, map selection, buff usage, and similar information may be collected to improve gameplay, stability, and balance.

Advertising

ENTaP will never sell player personal data. Advertising partners should receive only the minimum information reasonably necessary to serve advertisements. Player data will never be sold as a product.

Retention

Player identity and platform history should generally be preserved. Dormant accounts may be archived rather than deleted. Historical championship records should remain intact even if an account is later removed, subject to applicable legal requirements.

Public Information

Competitive accomplishments, championships, leaderboards, and similar public records are intended to remain part of ENTaP history. Public identity is separate from financial identity.

Cookies & Communications

ENTaP should use only minimal essential cookies by default. Player communications should be meaningful, infrequent, and respectful. Marketing communications should be opt-in where appropriate, while essential operational notices may always be delivered.

Future Considerations

Potential future features such as player data export, public APIs, and expanded privacy tooling may be added later as the platform grows. They are not required for initial launch.

Guiding Principle

Collect less. Protect more. Use player information only to operate, improve, and safeguard the ENTaP platform.
