

ENTaP Wax Framework v1

Purpose

Wax is the competitive prestige system for ENTaP. Unlike Honey, Wax is not an economy. It is a single persistent measure of a player's current competitive standing.

Core Principles

- Wax cannot be spent, traded, donated, converted, purchased, or transferred.
- Wax exists only to measure competitive skill and accomplishment.
- There is only ONE Wax system. No separate career Wax or active Wax.
- Wax is personal and follows the player across the ENTaP platform.
- Wax never grants gameplay power.

How Wax Changes

- Winning competitive matches awards Wax.
- Defeating stronger opponents awards more Wax than defeating weaker opponents.
- Losing to a significantly stronger opponent may award a small amount of Wax to recognize competitive performance.
- Money games, money tournaments, and money contests award modestly more Wax than equivalent free competitions because of their higher competitive pressure.
- Top placements in contests and tournaments award Wax.
- Leaderboard positions award Wax while they are held.
- Wax decays gradually with inactivity. Recency matters more than historical activity.

Leaderboard Philosophy

Leaderboard Wax is dynamic. Holding the top position grants the associated Wax. When another player takes that position, they receive the Wax associated with it, and the displaced player loses the difference between their previous position and their new position. Wax therefore represents current competitive standing rather than permanent accumulation.

Matchmaking

The backend stores Wax internally using decimal precision for accurate rating calculations. The player-facing value may be rounded for display. Matchmaking uses the precise backend value.

Unlocks

- League advancement.
- Tournament eligibility.
- Contest eligibility.
- Competitive prestige and profile display.

Wax does not unlock gameplay power, permanent buffs, or economic advantages.

Guiding Philosophy

Honey measures contribution to the ENTaP ecosystem. Nectar measures seasonal progression. Wax measures competitive excellence. Every change to the Wax system should reinforce that single purpose.
